merce. The owners of the locks naturally want what profit this business will pay, but they have certainly charged through the years all the traffic could bear. The federal government should care for this matter either by direct purchase of the old locks at a fair price or by constructing a new set of locks on the east side of the river, if this is possible, and maintaining those locks exclusively for steamers, without reference to power transmission. This would perhaps be the better method and involve less cost than to condemn the old locks. The whole of western Oregon, at least, is in favor of free locks at Oregon City in order that the Willamette, dredged, its snags removed, revetment work done where needed, may really be an open river, navigable the year round as far, say, as Corvallis.

These practical reasons hold the interest of this city in these river improvements. With a four-foot channel not thirty or forty or fifty, from Portland to the head of navigation on the Willamette, we would have a competing line, the real thing.

The river is an asset, also, from the standpoint of its beauty. It is coming to be a fact that in the west where tourist travel is sought and tourist money helps make things go that the beautiful in forest and mountain and stream are appraised at a valuation. Albany is not set upon a hill, which is a good thing, but is a railroad center owning a lordly river, which is more to the point, and another argument for river improvement for the sake of summer travel.

Albany has stood with other portions of the state for an open Columbia. This is but part of the story. Give the Willamette a fair hearing. Call it a good roads movement, if you will, but let this be a plea for interest generally in a worthy phase of Oregon's economic life.

(From address of G. A. Westgate at Willamette Valley Development League Albany, Oregon, January 24, 1906.)

Imperfect Digestion.

Means less nutrition and in consequence less vitality. When the liver fails to secrete bile, the blood becomes loaded with bilious properties, the digestion becomes impaired and the bowels constipated. Herbine will rectify this; it gives tone to the stomach, liver and kidneys, strengthens the appetite, clears and improves the complexion, infuses new life and vigor to the whole system. 50c a bottle. Sold by D. J. Fry.

League Valley Meets at Albany

be expensive compared with the value of the work. These sandbars, forming quickly, are the main hindrance to navigation in the dry season. Then, revetment work is necessary here and there. It is of interest to Albany that those things are in the doing, and to keep them so is no light task for development leagues, commercial bodies and legislators.

Albany is interested in the plan of federal control of the locks at Oregon City in the interest of shipping and without the charging of tolls.

This lockage charge amounts to about twenty-five per cent of the rate on heavy freight. For instance, the freight on a ton of grain from Albany to Portland is $2 per ton. The lockage charge is 50c per ton. It is too much and an unwarranted tax on commerce.
